

ABSTRACT

A method and system for identifying the health of virtual routers is provided. First information from a first and second router of a virtual router is obtained. The first information is used to determine the health of the virtual router. A topology of the network is produced identifying the health of the virtual router.